19. Do you agree or disagree?

I would like to understand movies and/or TV dramas in English without Japanese subtitles.
20. Do you agree or disagree?

I am ready to make efforts necessary to gain such proficiency.
Seven Major Findings (1)

1. College students most commonly watch a movie on a DVD player; seeing a movie at the theaters is much less frequent, possibly outdated.

2. English language movies are much more popular than Japanese language movies. Moreover, many like both.

3. A few students watch movies with the intent to learn English.

4. Among other skills, listening is considered to be best improved from watching movies.
Seven Major Findings (2)

5. Watching a movie with Japanese subtitles is the most common form of viewing and few stop the player to check lines.

6. Most students wish to be able to comprehend a movie without looking at Japanese subtitles and a relatively large number of them are ready to make the effort required to gain such proficiency.

7. Action, SF and romance are the three most popular movie genres.
Part 2: Classroom & Autonomous Learning

General Characteristics of Average Japanese College Learners of English

1. Many students study English simply for getting credits.
2. Many students stop studying English after they get their credits.
3. Many students won’t restart studying English unless forced.

Sample movie comments on a BBS (A)

Good evening.
I watched a movie, "Iron Giant" in the camp this last weekend. I watched it for the first time. It was so exciting and I was moved. Especially the scene that the robot went to die moved me. I write some phrases I caught in the movie.

I see it.
Over here, honey.
Excuse me, sir.
Hey, I saw it, too.
I'll believe you.
Sorry, kid.
I love you, honey.
Come on, mom.
We may be able to read minds.
What's that?
What do you think you are doing?
I was so soared.
I'm serious.
Stop it.
Just stop it.
Strange invader.
You really are crazy.
We did find this.
You saw me save you.
Where are you from?
Don't you remember anything?
Can you talk?
Well, he get it anyway.
I told you.
I come here tomorrow.
You are alive.
Sample movie comments on a BBS (B)

The Iron Giant
1999, Brad Bird, Warner Bros.
I watched this film during the camp. I didn’t know this film was a Disney film. I think this film is a moving film, but the plot was common. Of course, it is good that the plot is easy to understand, but I felt some dissatisfaction. In addition, the last scene was predictable. I like unpredictability and reversing, so it was lacking for me. I am now disappointed by me write only criticisms and not got moved unreservedly.

Who’s there honey?
It ate my car.
A giant metal monster.
I will go get him.
I was thinking the same thing.
I see it.
Mayday.
Excuse me sir?
I believe you.
I was so scared.
We did find this.
I guess you are not gonna hurt me.
You came from the sky, right?
This is something much more serious.
Me go.
You can fly yourself.
You are who you choose to be.
I don’t know what you’re thinking about.
Who’s there honey?
See something unusual?

1. Teaching is just part of learning.

2. Teaching is a way to facilitate learning in individual and collective settings.

3. What we can teach our students in class is rather limited, but students can learn far more in autonomous settings.
4. We should strive not only to develop our skills of teaching but also work out effective ways to facilitate autonomous learning.

5. We should not only be satisfied with teaching and grading our students but also we should encourage them grow autonomously to be responsible for their own learning.
Thank you for listening.
